

GOING GLOBAL WITH JSB INTERNATIONAL

When you're looking to invest in property, whether you're doing it for the first time or have some knowledge of the market, it's always a good thing to have prior knowledge of where you're investing. Take the current financial climate here in the UK. Few people from abroad are going to consider the UK as a possible destination for a number of reasons, primarily financial, but there are many more things to consider.

Joseph Barnes has been in local real estate for several years in Maryland, Washington D.C. His portfolio and reputation speaks for itself. Five years ago Joseph found himself looking for a better way to invest his money than in the stock markets, a practice many people now view as a gamble due to economic uncertainty. On a visit to Brazil he found himself asking many questions about investing abroad and what considerations were needed. It was on his return and after several years of detailed research JSB International was formed.

Originally from Texas, Joseph now relocated to Baltimore brings experience in the real estate industry. Here's a little but more about the man behind the idea.

"I live downtown and love it! Let me show you why Baltimore city is the place to be. With my knowledge of the area, desire to provide outstanding customer service, and availability to my clients; I get the job done. Be it listing your house and getting you the best possible price, and markets for years to determine which countries are economically stable, politically stable and are a worthy place to invest.” Joseph’s main principle behind JSB International is safety. His consultancy firm trawls the globe looking for safe places for you to invest, both

From Dubai to the Philippines, South America to Croatia, JSB International is truly global. “Foreign nationals look to invest overseas for a variety of different reasons”, he explained. “Our focus is to present something new to the world. We can help you set up, draw up detailed design plans for your property with top architects, provide accurate information on the laws of the country and tips on increasing the value of the property.” In the current climate we live in, eco-friendly and locations environmentally aware on hot on the list. In the case of Brazil, Joseph said: “My focus was to find out as much as possible that would give me the best possible chance of making an informed decision.” The proof, as always, is in customer satisfaction, and here’s a testimony to add to Joseph’s already glowing reputation. “The best real estate agent in Baltimore is Joseph Barnes we’d like to thank him for all his help with our Good Morning America segment, “Dump to
